14th may 2026

Tomorrow is my birthday I am turning 19 I don’t feel much of it

I want to celebrate my birthday but I have nobody who would be equally excited for my birthday but I also think that’s too much to ask for that only happens in movies not in real life

Today I practiced how I would accept my birthday gift when someone surprises me with a box gift wrapped with the shiny golden gift paper and would have my name on it I have done that for many years but nobody every surprised me with gift like that I have been dreaming of every year

This year I asked my parents to get be a new laptop because this one I am currently typing on (HP pavilion X360) has gotten very old and slow but now they have ignored my request because I did not get good marks in JEE or CET well I think that’s quite fair because I do deserve this I have been a failure for most of my life

I have been staring at the gift suraj, yash, harshal got me in 2018 I still sits on my desk it’s the one and only gift I have ever received and I love it its very close to my heart thanks to them I wish I can meet my friends that are long gone away from my life

Currently I don’t have friends my social life has been mostly online and I have my cousin who I think is pretty annoyed of me so I don’t bother him much now

I have seen many videos of people showing off how fast their phone notification rings when the clock hits 12:00 A.M I wish in future I can experience that I feel so alone today

I don’t think the birthday is going to be fun because I don’t have anybody to celebrate it but I hope next year when I go to collage and make friends I will celebrate my birthday with them because they will be excited for me

Maybe not this birthday but do i have lot to live in my life so all I can do is hope that I will find my people who will celebrate me and make me feel a part of them and not an outkast I have been feeling for a long time

I want to cut a slice of cake while being surrounded by the people who will be my friends and will sing me happy birthday song from their heart

I have seen lots of birthday videos where person’s face gets smashed in the birthday cake and everybody laugh at them i want this to happen to me that would be so funny this year I am the only one who has best and heartful wishes for myself happy birthday to you, happy birthday to you omee you are turning 19 now I know things has been going pretty fast and you are unable to process it but its fine you will find your way through I believe in you. You will make your place in this world and be a hero of your own story make the big dreams come true ome you got this. You are going to be the best